REGISTRATION HEAVY TODAY IN ALL WARDS

1111 Registered at 2 p. m.—Polls Open Till 9 O'clock Tonight—Large Number of Women Out Today

SPECIAL REGISTRATION DAY TO BE SATURDAY

From figures compiled at 2 o'clock this afternoon it appears that this will be one of the most [illegible] registration days the city has ever had. Men and women were waiting in line at some of the registration places this afternoon and [illegible] of them official have been busy all day with the work.

The total number of persons registered at 2 o'clock at the four registration places was 1111, the number registered at each place being as follows: South side ward 25, West End Ward 226, Opera House ward 25, City Hall ward 2[illegible]5.

Figures showing the number of women registering at all the wards are now available, though a large per cent [illegible] of them seem to be in line. At the City hall ward 17 women and 138 men had registered at 2 o'clock. Though a majority of persons are registering as Republicans there are many Democrats. From an incomplete examination of the records it appears that about 35 per cent of the total number are Democrats, a few registered as Independent and the balance were Republican.

Registration places will be open until 9 o'clock tonight, thus giving persons who are employed during the day an opportunity to register for the coming city elections. A special registration will be held Saturday for those who failed to register today.

OLD STABLES FAST DISAPPEARING IN MIDDLESBORO

The old stables on East Cumberland which have served the incoming farmers since the early days of Middlesboro, are now disappearing, giving way before the march of progress in that section.

One of these, owned by Allen Estep, has recently been razed and the foundation for a bungalow on the site have been placed. Mr. Estep is planning to raze the other stable on the adjoining lot and erect houses there.

The old stables have been used exclusively by farmers who bring produce into town. Since the motor vehicles have largely supplanted the horse drawn conveyances the patronage of the stables has gradually decreased. There is still one large stable left in the section which will take care of all the business.

BOY DEAD FROM FOOTBALL INJURIES TO BE BURIED HERE

Funeral services for Willie Cadle, former Middlesboro youth, who died at Pineville yesterday from injuries received in the Corbin-Pineville football game at the latter town Friday, will be conducted at the First Baptist church at Corbin tomorrow morning. The remains will be brought to Middlesboro for the 12:40 train. A brief service followed by interment will take place at Hurst cemetery tomorrow afternoon.

JUDGE WALTON EVANS TO RETIRE AFTER 20 YEARS SERVICE

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 2—Definite announcement that he would retire from the Federal bench during the early winter and probably not later than January, was made by Judge Walter Evans of the Federal court for the western district of Kentucky here today. It is understood his retirement is due to his state of health. Evans is advanced in years and has been on the bench more than a score of years.

MINER THROWN FROM RAIL HORSE, LEG IS BROKEN

J. E. Combs was hurt Friday evening when thrown from a rail horse which he was riding down the tracks from the Monarch mines. His leg was broken below the knee and he suffered other bruises. The accident was caused by the sudden stopping of the horse when the brakes became locked. The injured man was resting quietly at the Brosheer Brummett Hospital this morning.

NEW LOUISVILLE MASONIC TEMPLE

Seven Stories High—Cost Over One Million Dollars—Hall Will Seat 4500 Persons

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 2—The building record of Louisville, which has attracted the attention of every other city in the United States, is giving the state of Kentucky an enviable reputation all over the country.

Kentucky is a builder is the impression which has gone forth, and the end of these big projects is not yet in sight. Only this week, work was begun on construction of what is to be among the most attractive and imposing buildings in the entire country. Ground for this structure was broken Monday with impressive ceremonies in which Mayor Quin, Judge [illegible] W. Bingham and Neill W. [illegible], attorney for the Louisville Railway Co., delivered addresses. This building, the new mosque of Kosair Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, located on Broadway between Floyd and Brook streets, will be seven stories in height and cost over one million dollars. It will be of the Oriental type of architecture, and besides facilities for the Shrine affairs will include an auditorium for public use seating 4,500 persons, the largest in the city, an immense dining hall and more than 100 hotel rooms offering the most modern facilities.

This building project, however, is only a part of the activities of Kosair Temple which is just now engaged in a campaign to raise money to build a Convalescent Home for Crippled Children of the entire State in Louisville. There are 12,000 crippled children in Kentucky and the movement therefore is of interest in every section of the state. The work of rehabilitation already has begun, and the campaign will come to a climax with the three days entertainment to be given Oct. [illegible] and Nov. 1 and 2 at the Jefferson County Armory, when "Hearts In Mecca" will be produced. The number of tickets already [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to this entertainment by the 7500 Kentucky Shriners and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] is expected. The entertainment will include an Oriental [illegible] [illegible] carnival and real live [illegible].

GRAYBEAL FAILS TO MAKE BOND HELD TO GRAND JURY

[illegible] of M. H. Graybeal, charged [illegible] [illegible] girl under 12 years of age, will be investigated by the grand jury. The defendant is confined in the city jail, having failed to make the $2000 bond imposed at the examining trial.

STURDY OLD HOOT OWL HALTS OPERATIONS OF K. U. TODAY

Publication of the Daily News today was handicapped, factories were unable to operate, the city was without lights and the work of a 30,000,000 corporation was halted this morning by an owl.

At [illegible] o'clock this morning, the bird alighted on the high tension wires between Colmar and Yanilla at Hances creek and caused a short circuit, resulting in the burning of the wires. The owl paid dearly for his rash act however, being instantly electrocuted by the high voltage. Burned under the wings and on the legs his lifeless body was found on the ground at the scene of the damage. The owl was brought to Middlesboro at noon and exhibited as positive proof of the cause of the damage.

The damage was repaired within 5 minutes of the time it was discovered, according to W. C. Stair, manager of the K. U. company. The greater part of the time was spent in locating the burned wire. Electric service in the city was resumed at 9:45 o'clock this morning.

EAST END GRADING ALMOST FINISHED

Center Will be Parked, Other Work Pushed to Finish—Plans for Concrete Bridge

The grading is practically completed on East Cumberland avenue, the work having been done from Fitzpatrick avenue to Tenth street, the section improved. The center of the street has not been graded, this being the part to be parked. Some work is yet to be done along the south side of the street where the Kentucky Utilities company is placing new water mains.

That part of the old bridge which is left standing is being strengthened so that the heavy road working machinery may be moved to the east side at which place the paving work will be done on the street soon.

The new bridge has been completed on Lothbury avenue and the street is being graded there so that the thorofare may be used when the concrete bridge on East Cumberland is being made.

Concrete gutters are being put in as fast as possible this week.

FINED FOR SWEEPING TRASH FROM BUILDING INTO STREET

The campaign of strict enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting the sweeping of trash from buildings into the streets has already begun. [illegible] Mills was arrested by Policeman Reese Watkins at 7:15 Friday morning and charged with this offense. He was fined five dollars, without extra cost, in the police court.

The offense has been one of daily occurrence even along the business section of Cumberland avenue and it is thought that an enforcement of the city ordinance will soon put an end to the practice. In a view of the fact that the business section has been recently paved it is all the more important that trash be kept off the streets.

At the last city council meeting, Mayor T. H. Keeney gave orders to the police department for a strict enforcement of the law, it having been pointed out by council members that this unsanitary practice continually kept the streets in a filthy and unsightly condition.

PRISONERS' FRIEND

PITTSBURG, Oct. 2—Prisoners at No. 1 Police Station here never had a better friend than their keeper, Mrs. J. Shemer.

In all her 20 years of handling the inmates Mrs. Shemer boasts she has never lost their respect and their faith in her. Only once did she have to do battle with a recalcitrant woman who fought her so severely that her arm was broken. Otherwise a dash of cold water on an obstreperous prisoner's face was all she needed to calm her.

Now Mrs. Shemer retires after 20 years service as matron of No. 1 Station, 66, and leaves with the enviable record of never having been late nor of ever having been reprimanded during all the time she had been in city's employ.

HEAVY VOTE IN OKLA. SPECIAL ELECTION TODAY

Only Four Counties and Part of Another Fail to Open Polls—No Disturbance Seen in Any District

EXPECT WALTON TO CHALLENGE VOTE LEGALITY

Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 2—The Oklahoma special election at which it will be decided whether the legislature shall meet to consider impeachment charges against Governor Walton swung into full movement early today. Reports indicated polls opened over the state with the exception of four full counties and part of a fifth. Indications were that unusually heavy vote was being cast.

In Texas, Harper, Cimmaron and Johnston counties all voting places are closed and in Jefferson county only six of 28 opened. Voters who cast ballots today expected Walton would challenge today's election and that the court decision probably will be necessary to determine the legality. On the other hand State's Attorney George Short proclaimed it legal and if carried it is indicated the legislature probably will be in a position if no legal contest is instituted to convene before the end of the week.

Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 2—No disturbance marked the opening of polls here this morning. Early voting was light. Hundreds of deputies were ready to quell any disorder and prevent any effort to stop voting, a county official declared.

MAN SHOOTS 20 TIMES SUN. NIGHT BUT COURT FREES HIM

Presumably because the officer did not have a search warrant when the defendant was arrested, Carson Harris was acquitted of carrying a pistol in police court yesterday morning.

According to D. C. Sellers, deputy sheriff who made the arrest, about twenty shots were fired on Lothbury avenue Sunday night. Meanwhile two Chevrolet cars kept running back and forth and it was thought the shots were fired from them. The deputy stopped one of the cars and felt a pistol in Harris' pocket. The weapon was dropped to the floor of the car as Harris left it.

The defendant was not held guilty of any offense at his trial in police court.

FATHER AND SON ARRESTED, 30 GALLON STILL TAKEN

A new 30 gallon copper still was captured near the Mingo mines sub-station at noon yesterday. J. A. Lyons and his father were charged with the ownership of the still and a half gallon of whiskey found in their house, arrested and taken to the Tazewell jail.

The still was found at the rear of the Lyons residence. The men made no resistance when the officers placed them under arrest. J. A. Lyon operated the mine substation. Those who made the arrest were Deputy Sheriffs John Wilson, Leslie Webb and J. H. Mu[illegible]e and Mr. Campbell, bookkeeper at the mines.

FORMER DAILY NEWS PRINTERS ARRIVE IN FLORIDA

MELBOURNE, Fla., Oct. 1—Messrs. Stewart Shull and Wesley Oslin arrived home Saturday from Middlesboro, Ky., where they worked on one of the big daily papers the past year. Stewart is an expert linotype operator and Wesley is an all round printer. Both of the boys are making good in the printing trade and are capable of holding down a job in any of the big shops, but they do like to get back to the old home state for the winter months. They are in Miami and West Palm Beach this week and have not decided yet where they will locate.

A THOUGHT

Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven.—Matt. 19:14.

There is a feeling of eternity in youth which makes us amends for everything. To be young is to be as one of the immortals.—Hazlitt.

HALF TAXED
HALF UNTAXED

Advocates of public ownership schemes use as one of their strongest arguments, the statement that states, counties or cities can borrow money cheaper than private companies because their bonds are "tax-exempt." In addition public property pays no taxes.

The income from some $30,000,000,000 of such tax-exempt bonds now goes tax-free and the rest of us pay additional taxes to make up loss to the government.

If public ownership was extended to various lines of industry as advocated by two constitutional amendments proposed in Georgia, the tax assessment roll would shrink and the burden of taxation on remaining taxable property would grow heavier and heavier as city, county and state functions were enlarged.

Advocates of public ownership will find that it will be impossible in this country to maintain the right of private property for half the people while taking over under public ownership the property of the other half.

Ultimately we find a situation where the principal business of those holding office would be how to collect tax revenue from those not holding office in order to meet the public payroll.

THE OPEN FORUM

Editor Daily News:

Middlesboro is growing rapidly; spreading out to the four corners of the boundry line. Would it not be wise to establish suplimentary voting places in the outer corners of the four wards, so that every man and woman could cast their ballot without taking all day to do so, as many have now to do?

The four new school houses would make splendid voting booths. What better preparation for citizenship could be conceived, than to teach the boys and girls while in school, how to use the ballot? In some schools in Kentucky, where student government obtains officers are elected as city officials are chosen. Some may say that school is no place for an election booth to be stationed. Then the voting places should be made good.

It may be too near election time, to give thought to the making of 2 or 3 precincts in a ward; but by next year (presidential election) when a larger number will want to vote, the idea should be put through....

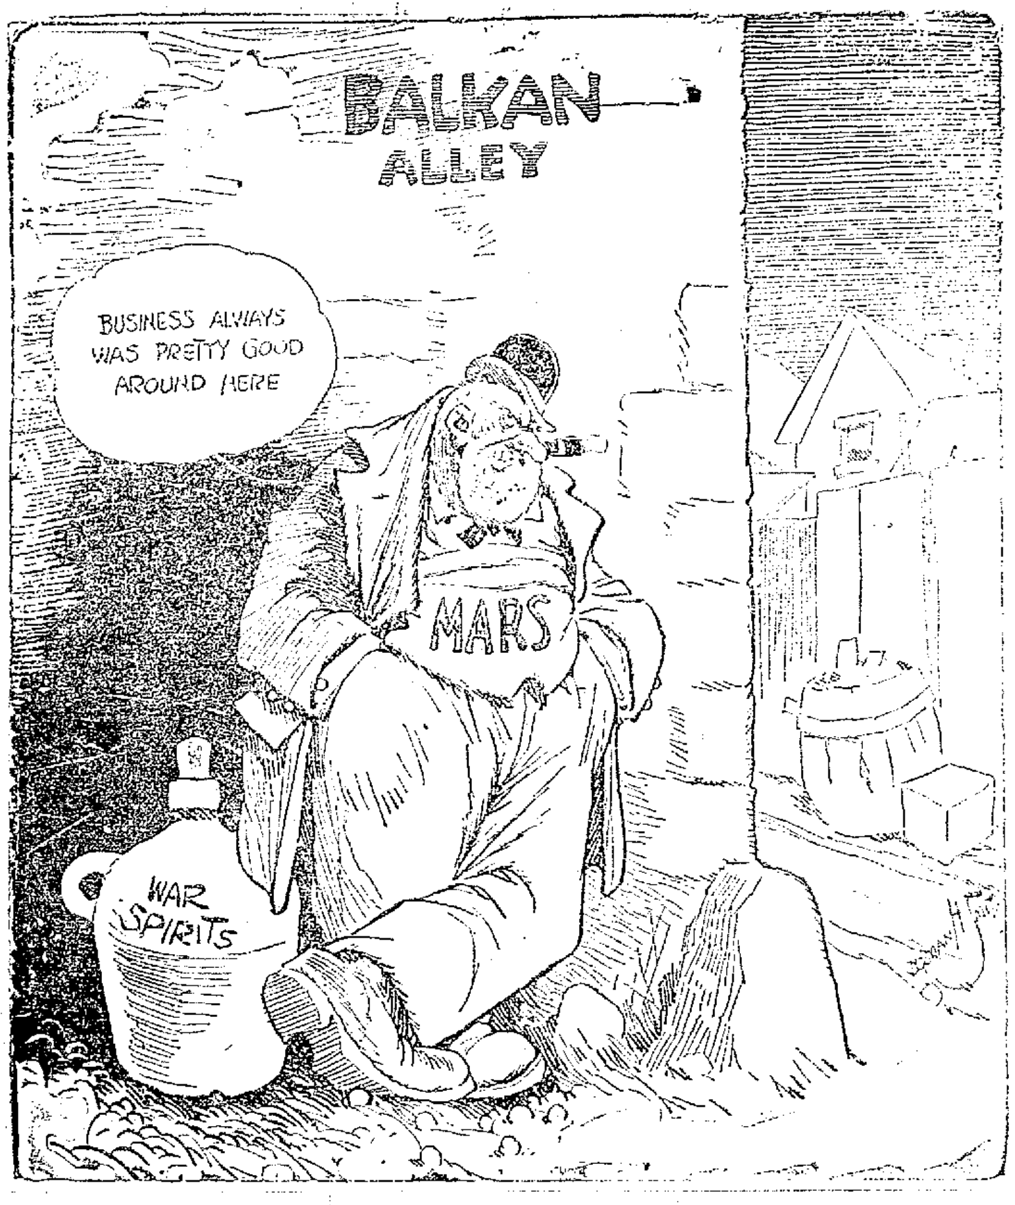
Tom Sims Says

Well, scientists found eggs six inches long in Mongolia which may make our hens mad.

Scientists found 70 fossil skulls well preserved showing all fossils are hard headed.

Mongolian discovery is greatest in paleontology. They even found out what that word means.

THE BOOTLEGGER



BALKAN ALLEY

All of these dinosaurs dug up in Mongolia lived in a cave, proving rents were high then.

Discoveries only date back a few million years, so first coal strike is not among them.

If they bring these Mongolian fossils into America the things may run for Congress.

Had King Tut dresses last winter. Found dinosaurs now. Dinosaur went naked. Look out!

Seems as if scientists are able to dig up anything except pre-war prices.

If they go far enough into these Mongolian relics they may find a nickel cigar.

Better bring these scientists back to America and let them try digging for coal.

Dinosaur bones are great big things so rheumatism must have been terrible in those days.

Of course huge dinosaur eggs were found by egg-sperts.

Bet the ancient dinosaur had to crow like cannon after laying eggs six inches long.

Imagine an ancient little boy carefully trudging home with an egg on his shoulder.

When huge dinosaur eggs were common, ham and eggs were probably a ham and an egg.

Ancient picnics were bad. Think of forgetting the salt for an egg six inches long.

These huge eggs they found are millions of years old. Bet they found them in a cafe.

Perhaps these ancient eggs are so big it only takes ten of them to make a dozen.

Mongolia, with six inch eggs a million years old, must be a bad place for actors.

Dinosaurs walked on four feet. Hope their discovery doesn't start a diosaur dance.

After Ruth left me, I rather began to wonder why she had told me so freely her life's tragedy. You and I, little Marquise, know that women seldom confess to other women that their husbands are what men call dishonorable. There is another definition for them when men mistreat women.

Ruth made it very plain with her illustrations with the Seventh and Eighth Commandments. A man treats the breaking of the Seventh Commandment as a joke. To the women it always spells tragedy.

A woman hates to confess that her husband is something disreputable in the eyes of other men. Because I was a woman I knew how hard it would be for Ruth to say this about her husband and I knew she had some peculiar motive for doing so.

All at once what Jack had told me after returning from the visit to New York with Harry Ellington came to my mind. "I am sitting on the rim of the world," he had said and how he had alternately been in the highest and the lowest spirits ever since.

"Jack is dabbling in stocks," I said to myself, "and that is what he wanted the baby's five hundred dollars for. He is doing this through Harry Ellington and Ruth, poor girl has swallowed her pride to tell me. She cares enough for me to warn Jack through me.

I could hardly wait until Jack came home to ask him about it and when I did, he answered gruffly, "Who's been telling you anything?"

"But you know, dear if Mr. Bullock finds out you have been buying stocks on a margin, I am almost sure he will discharge you."

"No, he won't Leslie, while I am turning in as much business as I am now."

"It doesn't seem to be doing us any good, Jack. I wonder if you know that it has been more than a month and a half since you have given me one cent of money."

"If you will wait a week or two you will have all the money you want. Besides, I knew you had money."

"But Jack, I spent the last of that thousand dollars over a week ago and today both the grocery bill and the rent are due."

"I really can't understand where that thousand dollars went to, Leslie."

A great deal of it paid my hospital bills."

"Well the grocer and the landlord will have to wait. I will not have a cent until I am paid next Thursday."

I didn't say anything. My heart heart was too full. I knew what Ruth had intimated was true. That is where Jack's commissions have gone. What could I do? Is it always woman's destiny to watch and wait?

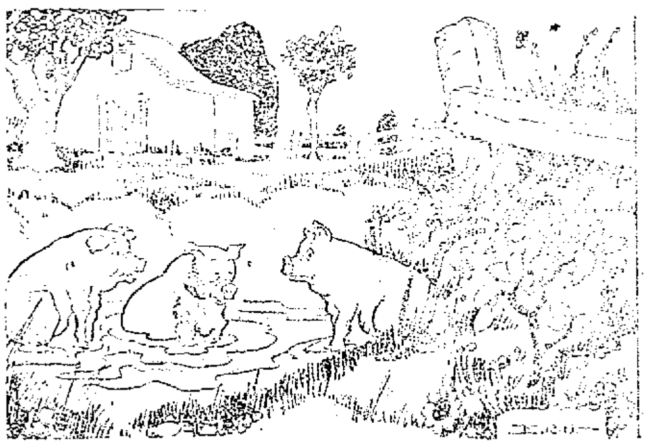
NO. 1—THREE GREEDY PIGS



"Let's talk about something to eat," said Piggy Wig Pig.

Piggy Wig Pig and Saucy Snout Pig and Twisty Tail Pig were all lying side by side in a cool, muddy puddle in Squealy-Moo Land. They looked like three sausages that had been stuffed too tight and were ready to burst if you touched them.

Piggy Wig Pig was black, Saucy Snout Pig was white and Twisty Tail Pig was black and white, but just now they were brown all over, the three of them, for they had rolled in the mud and dried off and they were sights to behold!

"Let's talk about something to eat," said Piggy Wig Pig.

"Yes, let's!" agreed the others.

But to Nancy and Nick and Mister Dodger, the fairy man, on the other side of the fence, it sounded as though one pig was grunting, another squealing and another snorting, such funny noises they made when they talked.

"I like buttermilk with corn cobs floating in it!" said Piggy Wig Pig, smacking his lips.

"And I like the days they have apple pies!" said Saucy Snout. "Then they dump all the apple peelings and cores into the trough. Um!"

"Oh, I like anything!" declared Twisty Tail. "I'm not particular. Clover's good though, I like that!

Now I didn't tell you there was another little pig in the field, but there was! A nice clean little red fellow, who wasn't very fat, or very big, or very curly as his tail wasn't— and he wasn't dirty at all! But he was very hungry.

Farmer Brown had bought him from a neighbor, and he felt very lonely and forlorn, for the other pigs wouldn't look at him at all!

Just then, there was a loud bumping. It was Farmer Brown emptying his slop pails into the trough at the pigsty.

Instantly there was a scrambling and off started the four pigs for their lunch.

"Get out!" squealed Piggy Wig Pig at the stranger.

"Wait till we're through," grunted Saucy Snout over his fat shoulder.

"We'll give you what's left," called Twisty Tail.

That's the way it always was. No wonder poor Reddy Pig was so thin and hungry! For there never was anything left!

But suddenly something happened. Nancy grabbed one greedy pig by his hind foot, and Nick grabbed another and Mister Dodger grabbed the third.

"Go on, Reddy, and eat your fill," cried the fairy man.

Which he did without any coaxing.

There never was any more trouble after that for the pigs all promised to be good.

Berton Braley's Poem

FULL MEASURE

When they say a thing has neither
  rhyme nor reason"
 What they mean is that it hasn't any sense,
That it doesn't fit with any clime
  or season,
That its total lack of logic is immense;
  Being lacking in all backing of the brain,
  and inane;
  Not bright and intellectual
  But dull and ineffectual,
 With no hint of glint or smartness—not a bit;
  With no dash or flash or rumor
  Of the slightest splash of humor.
  Or that bitter sort of glitter
   Known as Wit.

When they say a thing has "neither rhyme nor reason"
 It's a sign that they regard it as a mess, As a thing you couldn't even prime a wheeze on.
 As a total liability—no less:
 With a flavor, pep and savor of a pie
 Like the showy tasteless doughy kind you buy;
 The restaurant variety
 Which ruins all your piety
 And takes away your gay and merry look;
 Till you vow, "well now I'll do it,
Knit my brow and go right to it."
  And you trifle with a rifle for the cook.

When they say a thing has "neither
  rhyme nor reason"
 What they mean is that it isn't worth the while,
That its full of literary crime and
  and treason,
 Or is quite incomprehensible in style;
 That its duller in its color than you wish,
 That it's merry, bright and airy
 Like a Fish.
 We will soon be arriving at
The thing that I am driving at,
 You'll catch a snatch of it from time to time;
 Though there's nought of thought to freeze on.
 Though these verses have no reason,
 They've got I wot an awful lot of Rhyme.

Fossils a million years old have good teeth. Wonder what kind of tooth paste they used?
